2018 Annual Report

HOW DO WE tackle THE ISSUE OF HUNGER?

The latest release of the Map the Meal Gap (MTMG) study shows the food-insecurity needle has moved in a positive direction. In 2017, we released our 2022 strategic plan, which emphasizes our goals to reduce food insecurity, nourish our communities, and equip our clients with resources that move individuals from crisis to stability. We celebrate that MTMG data demonstrates progress as our work, with your support, has decreased the rate of food insecurity in the communities we serve.

Yet, more than 354,000 individuals along the Central Gulf Coast still question where their next meal will come from throughout the year. Hunger is a widespread issue in our service area. So, we press on, committed to reaching those who need us as they face the crisis and uncertainty of hunger.

In 2018, Feeding the Gulf Coast expanded partnerships and connected resources to clients in need. Our year held many promises to be the best yet. Then in October, we faced our greatest challenge as an organization—Hurricane Michael. The Category 5 storm left our eastern Florida service area devastated. For the tens of thousands of individuals who lost everything as a result of this catastrophe, starvation became a reality as they faced life or death situations with very limited resources. With the support of so many across the nation and locally, we were able to respond to the incredible need by administering relief immediately.

You, as a community, joined hands with our organization and made a significant impact in the lives of so many. On behalf of the board and staff of Feeding the Gulf Coast and the many partners you help equip, we extend our hearts and say, “thank you.” You are truly making a difference.

2018 FOOD DISTRIBUTION AT A GLANCE

There Through the Storm

On October 10, 2018, the third strongest hurricane to make landfall in the continental United States struck the Florida Gulf Coast, destroying thousands of homes and businesses along the panhandle of Florida.

As Hurricane Michael's eye passed over Mexico Beach, it left destruction across much of Bay County. Feeding the Gulf Coast has worked tirelessly since that day to provide critical supplies and resources to impacted communities.

With countless businesses destroyed, many individuals are still without a job. Where they may have made ends meet before, now they have fewer resources and are without a paycheck, leaving their tables bare. This makes long-term food support critical to providing families with the nutrition they need while they work toward recovery.

As of July 2019, the food bank has distributed more than 6.5 million pounds of food, water, and supplies in Northwest Florida for Hurricane Michael relief.

When the Unexpected Strikes

No one anticipates losing all they own in one day, yet for many individuals in our panhandle service area, their lives will never be quite the same.

For Lisa Clouse, finding resources to feed six children was never easy; while trying to rebuild life after a Category 5 hurricane, it was nearly impossible.

“One of my kids has special needs, so I stay home to take care of him,” she said. “Money is normally tight, it’s even tighter now after Hurricane Michael,” said Lisa.

Lisa and her children evacuated before the hurricane hit their apartment in Panama City, Florida. But they still felt the storm’s effects.

On a very strict budget and without much food after the storm, Lisa turned to a Feeding the Gulf Coast partner food pantry in Panama City to feed her family.

“ WITHOUT THE FOOD WE’VE BEEN GETTING AT THE PANTRY, MY KIDS WOULD NOT HAVE HAD ENOUGH TO EAT AFTER THIS STORM.”

— Lisa Clouse

Partners in Hunger Relief

DeAdra Lee would do anything for her 3-year-old son, Dacian, including going hungry. She left her hometown to get away from a difficult situation. Soon after moving, she noticed Dacian was not acting like the other kids. After a doctor’s visit, DeAdra and Dacian were faced with a life-changing diagnosis—autism. DeAdra turned to a local food pantry for extra help.

Almost 20,000 families and individuals* utilize our network of over 420 agencies each month to find help.

These individuals may be hard-working adults struggling to adequately provide for their families, seniors who have run out of funds because their resources are stretched far too thin, or children who go to bed hungry, worried tomorrow will not be much better. Our agencies are a critical lifeline that many people rely on to make ends meet during tough seasons of their lives.

Food insecurity threatens people’s health and their ability to learn and work. We believe everyone should have access to nutritious food. A key focus in our strategic plan emphasizes feeding more people and, in the process, nourishing them with proper food to help reduce stress and medical issues.

“The healthy food we receive has helped Dacian socially and with his speech. I see this kid emerging that I never thought I’d see, and now that chance is really there for him.”
— DeAdra Lee

IN 2018, OUR NETWORK OF 428 AGENCIES DISTRIBUTED OVER 11,616,800 MEALS.

*Possibility of duplication.

Increasing Access

Due to limited resources, age, ability, or physical access, clients often struggle to reach pantries. For similar reasons, our pantries sometimes have limited ability to serve the people in their area who need help.

To expand access to more meals, we increased our capacity by providing agencies with better equipment, hosting more direct distributions in high-need areas, and focusing on innovative strategies to get nutritious product to those in need quicker.

Thanks to community partners like Southeastern Grocers and Senior Bowl, we were able to conduct multiple distributions during disaster relief and the holiday season.

“THE REFRIGERATED TRAILER HELPS US OUT TREMENDOUSLY! WE ARE NOW HAVING TO MAKE FEWER TRIPS OUT TO DO THE PICKUPS. WE MAKE ONE TRIP IN THE MORNING AND EVERYTHING STAYS COOL.”

— Eric Roberts, Mission of Hope

Distributions

SENIOR REACH

The Commodity Supplemental Food Program (CSFP) served more seniors in our Florida service area.

We completed the process of implementing CSFP in our Alabama counties, which will broaden our capacity to serve an additional 500 seniors in 2019.

Thanks to an AARP Foundation grant, we were able to aid 250 seniors in applying for benefits and provide them with bags filled with fresh produce.

SENIORS SERVED MONTHLY*

SAME-DAY DISTRIBUTIONS

Last year, we served 1,196,384 meals to over 62,320 individuals* through both mobile pantries and produce drops.

In addition to traditional agency-hosted mobile pantry distributions, the food bank mobilized several single-day distributions in high-need areas thanks to generous community partners.

From Hurricane Michael response to serving those impacted by the federal shutdown in early 2019, the food bank has responded to needs that arose in unexpected places.

FOOD AS MEDICINE

To aid food-insecure individuals facing chronic disease, the food bank has allied with local healthcare institutes to distribute food boxes tailored to hypertensive or diabetic patients.

With funding from the Daniel Foundation of Alabama, we added monthly distributions at Stanton Road Clinic and Family Medicine, distributing over 1,400 pounds of produce, and helping to provide comprehensive support to 70 individuals.

Ready for the Weekend

Everyone needs consistent access to food to be healthy and happy. For children, the lack of regular, nutritious meals can be particularly stressful and harmful to their overall development.

According to Share Our Strength, 46% of children from low-income families say hunger hurts their ability to learn. Of these, 12% say that sometimes they are too distracted by hunger to do their homework.

For many children along the Central Gulf Coast, hunger does not end when the last school bell rings. Growling tummies are a constant distraction, which makes focusing on learning nearly impossible.

"Sometimes at night my 3-year-old sister will come and pat me on my head [to wake me up] and say, Sissy, I'm hungry."
 — student

To stretch tight budgets, many families purchase empty-calorie foods, making produce a rare treat. In 2018, Feeding the Gulf Coast increased Farm to School efforts to help introduce children to new fruits and veggies. The kids were taught an easy-to-prepare recipe and were given fresh produce to take home to their families.

Additionally, Feeding the Gulf Coast worked with 158 schools to reach over 9,800 children and provide 82,650 backpacks—a 75% increase in program participation from 2017.

THROUGH 249 SITES, 1,305,328 SNACKS AND MEALS WERE PROVIDED TO NEARLY 20,000 CHILDREN DURING OUR SUMMER AND AFTERSCHOOL MEAL PROGRAMS.

A Buffer in Times of Despair

Gary, an Alabama native who has worked all his life, built his own home, and put his kids through college with no debt, became injured on the job one day and was unable to work. Gary lived a frugal life, but with medical bills stacking up on the counter, he needed help making ends meet. He started visiting nearby pantries where he was able to sign up for benefits.

With these benefits, Gary was able to rely less on his local pantry and prepare more complete meals at home.

The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) and other similar programs, help fill the meal gap when families are at risk of going hungry. Hundreds of food pantries and soup kitchens across our service area provide essential meals to people in need, but SNAP helps serve as a buffer against chronic hunger and poor nutrition by increasing clients' access to grocery dollars and allowing individuals to make healthier decisions when providing for their families.

Feeding the Gulf Coast works to move families from crisis to stability. We see in our work that many utilize our services and programs in times of desperate need.

When we connect clients with benefits, their food budgets grow, and our partner agencies have more resources to help families who fall in the gaps.

Last year, our Outreach Team assisted over 4,000 individuals in signing up for benefits throughout Alabama and Mississippi. This generated an estimated 4,536,289 meals.

IN 2018, BENEFITS GENERATED OVER $24,115,000 IN LOCAL ECONOMIC IMPACT IN ALABAMA & MISSISSIPPI.

“I WISH I COULD WORK.
YOU MIGHT NOT NOTICE
FROM TALKING TO ME, BUT
I’M IN PAIN
EVERY DAY.”

— Perry, SNAP Recipient

Rescuing More Produce

Last year, we continued our commitment to connect with local farmers and food manufacturers to secure more fresh produce and improve our clients' diet quality. Through these partnerships, we engaged in more Farm to School initiatives, increased the amount of healthy items available to clients, and distributed nearly 4 million pounds of fruits and vegetables.

It Takes a Village

Andy Cornett, a volunteer at a Feeding the Gulf Coast partner food pantry, was personally impacted by Hurricane Michael. His family was forced to leave, and when they were finally able to return, they found their property severely damaged.

Sporting a smile and a t-shirt with his name written proudly on the front in marker, Andy with his approachability and quick decision-making skills keeps the food pantry running smoothly.

Day in and day out, hundreds of struggling families receive groceries, thanks to dedicated volunteers like Andy.

Feeding the Gulf Coast and our partners rely on the generosity of volunteers. This amazing group of almost 20,000 individuals helped save an estimated $2,147,020 of paid staff and operation time by donating over 130,000 hours of their time.

Our Vision

A Hunger-Free Central Gulf Coast

Our Mission

Feeding the Gulf Coast works through member organizations and special programs to provide nutritious food to meet the challenge of feeding people who are hungry as a result of systemic poverty, personal crisis or disaster.

We also educate the public regarding domestic hunger, proper nutrition and other related issues.

Feeding the Gulf Coast, formerly Bay Area Food Bank, is a member food bank of Feeding America and a United Way member agency.

This institution is an equal opportunity provider. To read the entire USDA statement, visit our website at feedingthegulfcoast.org.
