2020 ANNUAL REPORT

ANSWERING The Call to Serve
HOW CAN OUR Voice and Actions SERVE AS CATALYST FOR A BETTER TOMORROW?

The best answer to that question is TOGETHER. As the roar of a worldwide pandemic rose and two hurricanes tore through our community, a choir of voices and marching feet met this unprecedented challenge head-on. We are truly better together, a sentiment once again proven in the face of great adversity.

We often use tools such as Map the Meal Gap to help quantify the need; yet 2020 rendered these tools useless to measure the unpredictable impact of extraordinary disasters and pandemics. The 2020 reality was lines of individuals and families stretched multiple times around football stadiums waiting for their box of food. So many of those seeking food assistance had never before needed help putting food on their table.

In 2020, Feeding the Gulf Coast expanded its services in every area to meet the increased need through child nutrition programs, agency support, mobile pantries, federal assistance programs, benefits outreach, food sourcing, and more. In addition to those investments, we also began construction on an expansion at our Florida facility and purchased more trucks and equipment, better positioning us to reach the growing need. The team never stood down even during the most challenging times, and our amazing partners stood shoulder to shoulder with us all along the way.

Forty years ago, a group of motivated and inspired people saw the need for a food bank, and they used their voices and actions to make it a reality. Today the seeds they planted have grown into a strong organization capable of inspiring and leading efforts to reach those facing hunger. But, of course, none of this is possible without the ongoing support of our partners, volunteers and donors. We thank you for working with us towards a better tomorrow.

40 Years of Hope

On September 17, 1980, Feeding the Gulf Coast, then known as Bay Area Food Bank, received the green light to open its doors. The food bank was birthed out of a need to invest in those underserved within the Mobile and Eastern Shore communities. Visionaries saw the lack of resources for those struggling to put food on the table every day. With a $5,000 donation from All Saints Episcopal Church, the food bank began operations at a facility in downtown Mobile, Alabama. Over the years, warehouse locations have changed and more have been built, the service area has grown, and hunger-relief programs have been implemented.

Forty years later, Feeding the Gulf Coast continues to serve the more than 376,700* individuals who face hunger along the central Gulf Coast. The spirit of those who established our mission carries through to the staff and network of partners today.

With four decades of vision and hard work, the organization has become a leading community voice on the importance of addressing food insecurity. It is through the strength of partners and supporters that the organization has continued to work toward a hunger-free central Gulf Coast to bring hope to hundreds of thousands of families.

A Year Like No Other

When schools and businesses began to close early in 2020, the food bank quickly assessed a critical situation: how to proceed safely and effectively to ensure people along the central Gulf Coast had access to their most basic necessity—food.

COVID-19 presented the perfect storm of increased demand, declined food donations, reduced volunteer support, and a disrupted charitable food assistance operating model, creating an economic crisis unlike anything since the Great Depression. The need drastically increased with 1 in 5 of our neighbors here along the Gulf Coast, including 1 in 3 children, facing hunger in 2020.

Many of our neighbors hit hardest by the crisis are working to get back on their feet but are struggling to afford rent, utilities, and food. The impact of hunger can be long-lasting as sacrificial decisions lead to educational development delays and chronic medical consequences.

Reaching a milestone, Feeding the Gulf Coast distributed more than 33 MILLION MEALS in 2020. This includes more than 38 million pounds of food distributed through more than 800 mobile pantries, more than 400 partner agencies and child nutrition site partners.

DURING THE PANDEMIC
Hunger is prevalent throughout the communities we serve, and yet it is often hidden from view. To better address hunger, we must know where it resides. For over a decade, Feeding America has conducted its annual Map the Meal Gap study* to illustrate the impact of food insecurity and food costs at the local level. In 2019, the overall food insecurity rate was the lowest in more than twenty years. In the height of the pandemic, Feeding America made calculated adjustments to its map to reflect the impact of the pandemic on food insecurity. They updated their projections (shown on this map) again in March 2021.

When this study was released, an estimated 350,370 individuals in our service area experienced food insecurity. Unfortunately, due to the pandemic, that projection has grown to encompass 26,370 more individuals and children who may now struggle with hunger on a consistent basis.

During April 2020, the food bank saw an extreme increase in web traffic to our “Find a Pantry” web page of individuals looking for agency sites as a result of the increase in need in the community. (+1,301.15%)
Disaster Response

Sally & Zeta

The 2020 hurricane season left our Gulf Coast communities picking up the pieces of their homes and lives as both Hurricanes Sally and Zeta created additional turmoil during an already hectic year.

Stan and Janice Moss have dedicated years of their lives to supporting families in south Baldwin County through the Christian Service Center, one of our partner agencies in Gulf Shores. They were able to quickly start serving individuals displaced after Hurricane Sally, many of whom lost their jobs due to COVID-19. Janice shared, “We had a beautiful opportunity to serve a group of people in a local campground. Several families lost their homes to the hurricane. We gave a week’s worth of food for all. Some people come in overwhelmed with loss. But people are also overcome with gratitude and joy for the help given to them.” Stan finished with, “Feeding the Gulf Coast is there for us so we can be there for them.”

Feeding the Gulf Coast distributed 3,153,379 pounds in response to both storms.

For our mission to be fully activated in the communities we serve, the food bank relies on the hands and feet of our partner agencies, many of whom are volunteers and older adults who are members of a vulnerable population. In 2020, our partners remained vitally committed through the constant threat of sickness—and, later, hurricanes—to serve those in need. When lines were long and resources stretched thin, our partners worked tirelessly.

For those like Trina, who were already struggling with difficult circumstances, the strain of the pandemic added layers of stress to their daily struggles. For others, food insecurity was a new experience. When a client encounters hunger and the need for food assistance for the first time, it can be an uncertain and frightening time, but through the partnership and strength of our network, we can provide the hope they need to overcome temporary situations and move from crisis to stability.

Of the more than 33 million meals we distributed in 2020, more than 17,865,200 meals were provided to families and individuals in need through our partner agencies.

“...“My [late] husband was the breadwinner, and he passed away last July. He had a heart attack. He wasn’t even 50. It has been rough working through the grief, and I am not making enough money to pay bills and buy food. That is why I have been waiting in line for food from Feeding the Gulf Coast. I have three kids; they are seven, nine, and thirteen. I am from Oregon and don’t have family here or much support. I overcome addiction. It has been a rough year from [coping with] the death of my husband, the Coronavirus, and trying to keep my family together, but I have stayed clean.” –Trina

Through All Means Possible

As schools shifted to various learning environments during the pandemic, the food bank began operating multiple programs—the Afterschool Meals Program, the School Pantry Program, the Backpack Program, and the Summer Meals Program—in tandem to ensure that children’s needs were met regardless if they were at home or at school.

"I have an eight-year-old student who is homeless. She has a four-year-old sister, and they are with both biological parents. They have stayed many nights in their car. The food that [Feeding the Gulf Coast] provides to the students through the school has helped this family have meals to eat.”
- Elementary School Social Worker

Feeding the Gulf Coast works hard to find inclusive and efficient ways to connect kids to a consistent source of healthy meals. As states declared abrupt emergency school closures in 2020, the food bank quickly shifted operations to ensure children who relied on free-and-reduced price meals at school would not go without. Our Child Nutrition team worked on overdrive to get meals ready to serve through our partnership with parks and recreation sites, schools, and local community centers.

Across our service area, nearly 180 sites partnered to serve meals and snacks to children. Additionally, the food bank worked with more than 130 local schools to distribute meals and supplies through backpacks and school pantries.

In 2020, Feeding the Gulf Coast was able to provide more than 1,511,000 meals and snacks for more than 17,000 children through our four child nutrition programs.
Here is a look at how we acquired food product during 2020.

Filling Plates

Helping the people we serve gain access to healthy foods is critical. Ensuring food waste is minimized in the process is an essential part of our mission as well. Connecting with local farmers results in less produce left in the field, and more nourishing food on the plates of those in need.

By working with more than 180 store donors, we were able to source over 11.5 million pounds of food through local grocers, 84% of which was fresh product.

All Together

As the pandemic progressed in the early Spring of 2020, the food bank experienced a sharp decline in volunteer support as more companies suspended employee outings due to safety concerns. However, in return, the food bank saw an increase in individuals who utilized their newfound time for community support.

Our volunteer support from new individuals in 2020 increased by 30%. Feeding the Gulf Coast created new avenues for how volunteers could get involved despite reduced group size and warehouse shifts which were limited due to social distancing. In addition, with the increase in mobile food distributions, larger groups were able to volunteer safely in an outdoor environment.

Almost 24,000 individuals and groups helped provide an estimated $2,245,530 of paid staff and operation time by donating over 224,550 hours of their time.
Food & Fund Drives, 500+ Meals

In 2020, over 594,540 meals were provided through Food and Fund Drives.

Community Support

When communities work together, amazing things can happen. Food and fund drives play a critical role in helping the food bank to provide a mix of shelf-stable products to our agencies. Many local businesses, groups, and individuals pulled together in 2020 to help the food bank meet our community’s needs. Individuals tapped into their strengths and talents to run marathons, take family photos, and utilize their circles of support to help raise awareness, funds, and food in creative ways.

"WHEN OUR CHURCH FAMILY HEARD THERE WAS AN INCREASED NEED FOR FOOD DURING THE PANDEMIC, THEY LEAPED INTO ACTION. THERE WERE SO MANY THINGS WE COULD NOT DO DURING THE PANDEMIC, BUT MAKING SURE OUR NEIGHBORS WEREN’T HUNGRY WAS SOMETHING WE COULD DO.

IT WAS A TREMENDOUS BLESSING FOR OUR SPRING HILL BAPTIST FAMILY TO BE ABLE TO SERVE OUR COMMUNITY DURING A TIME FILLED WITH FEAR, SICKNESS, AND SCARCITY. IT’S OUR PRAYER THAT GOD’S LOVE AND CARE WAS FELT AS A RESULT."

— Erica N. Holloway, Spring Hill Baptist Church

In 2020 our communities faced challenges and uncertainty unlike any in recent history. The resilience of families and individuals across our communities was tested as we were stretched to our limits. But through it all we were brought together. It is the dedication and willingness of partners to help that allowed us to support our neighbors during a year like no other. Because of your ongoing partnership and selfless generosity, Feeding the Gulf Coast is making meaningful progress in the fight to end hunger along the central Gulf Coast, while also rising to meet the surge in demand.

Thank you!
